About Town

And Country

DO YOU KNOW CLIFFORD OZEE? Mr. Ozee lived here a long, long time ago and now resides at Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, where his address is 112-55 96 Street.

Mr. Ozee writes: "County Paper, Harrisburg, Illinois. Dear Editor: Before 1910 I lived five miles east of Harrisburg. I am trying to locate some of my old school chums."

How about it, Mr. Berry? Uncle Frank?

AND WHILE WE'RE on the subject of letters with requests, Postmaster A. M. Hetherington revealed he had received a letter from a woman who collects match books, living in Connecticut. She requested he forward two match books from Harrisburg, which he did, after tearing out the matches.

UNCLE MAT writes a monthly letter to printers and here is one that has its points:

"The other day I heard a guy talking. He said: 'Like a bolt from the blue he landed on the guy in one fell swoop.'"

"It started me thinking about expressions people use. Because of the colorfulness of some of these expressions, they are used so often they become trite."

"What is a bolt from the blue? I suppose it means lightning suddenly striking when you least expect it, like the wife returning early from a vacation and finding you doing a tango with the girl from the office."

"Of course, there is no such thing as a bolt from the blue, and when I hear expressions like this it makes me hotter than a pistol. Incidentally, how hot does a pistol get? I don't know. It's probably just an old wives' tale."

"There's war again. What's an old wives' tale? A story told by some old wife. Whose old wife? Once you start this you wind up like a pig in a poke. Incidentally, the poke would have to be pretty big to get a pig in it. What's a poke anyway, outside of something you get on the nose for acting like a dog in the manger?"

"By the way, how many dogs these days spend any time in a manger? A guy gets lost at sea just thinking about these things."

"Once I saw a girl in a restaurant. She was as pretty as a picture but she ate like a horse. If I ate that much I'd be dead as a door-nail. I got dog tired just watching her. But she kept on eating just as cool as a cucumber."

"Now I've seen pictures that weren't pretty, especially those drawn by Picasso and I've seen horses eat so little you could put it in your hat."

"And I've also seen doornails that weren't quite dead, though bent out of shape. As for being cool as a cucumber, it gets me as mad as a March hare to hear expressions like that which mean nothing because a cucumber sitting out on the vine in the sun isn't cool."

"But a guy could become nuttier than a fruitcake just thinking about these expressions and since I want to remain fit as a fiddle so I can play golf, I'll stop thinking out loud and drop this subject like a hot potato."

Amputate Boy's Left Hand After Shell Explosion

DES MOINES — Army officers today investigated a shell explosion which all but ripped off the left hand of a boy attending the Hawk-eye Boys State gathering at nearby Fort Dodge.

Doctors amputated the hand of 17-year-old Danny Clark Wednesday night after it had been almost completely ripped off a few hours earlier.

Army authorities and American Legion officials, who sponsor the gathering, said they had no idea where the shell came from.

A study of the shell fragments showed it might have been a 37-millimeter shell of World War I vintage. Legion officials said it could have been uprooted by construction equipment or by tanks.

The Sergeant Bluffs, Iowa, boy was alone when the shell exploded, apparently while he was handling it.

Will Scarlett no report.

21 Persons are Feared Dead; One Body Found

21 Including Lone Woman Passenger Are Rescued

AMSTERDAM, Holland — Two heavily loaded oil tankers collided and burned in a fiery holocaust in the North Sea early today.

Maritime authorities said 21 persons were feared dead. One body had been recovered and 20 still were missing in the flaming, oil-slicked sea. Twenty-one persons, including the lone woman passenger, were rescued.

The impact was so great when the 7,256-ton Panamanian tanker Buccaneer hit the 10,788-ton Swedish tanker Johannishus that tons of flaming oil were spewed over the water, setting the sea and both ships afire.

The Buccaneer managed to bring its fire under control within two hours and stood by to help the crewmen of the Johannishus, who had to jump or die.

A small fleet of rescue craft ran a flaming gauntlet to pluck survivors from the sea, and the Buccaneer headed for port at Rotterdam, Holland.

The collision took place at the point where the Strait of Dover links the English Channel with the North Sea. Located between Belgium and England, it is one of the world's busiest water passages.

The Buccaneer managed to send two distress messages. But the blazing tower of flames attracted rescue craft even before the first SOS was received.

A dozen vessels plucked soaked and burned survivors from the sea and rushed them to port for treatment.

UP GOES 70 FEET OF SMOKESTACK AT THE PYRAMID Laundry and Cleaners, Harrisburg. The big stack was hoisted into place by using a crane from Blue Bird Coal company, assisted by one of Orval Dean's trucks. The stack, 70 feet in length, was made from seven 10-foot lengths of black iron pipe welded together. The pipe is 24 inches in diameter and weighs 2,660 pounds. The stack, placed this morning, replaces the old stack at the laundry which was blown over by high winds about ten days ago. "Tubby" Horning, owner of the laundry, said there was considerable damage to the roof of the laundry when the stack crashed across the east end of the building. The huge piece of pipe was put in place in quick order this morning, but workmen were still busy this afternoon anchoring it. Bill Stain had the general contract. Bridwell's welding fitted the lengths together and Blue Bird and Dean cooperated on the hoisting. (Register Staff Photo)

Senate Opens Hearings on Draft Extension

Proposed Doctor Draft Sidetracked By House Committee

By United Press

A four-year extension of the draft appeared certain today to win congressional approval.

The House already has passed an extension measure. The Senate Armed Services Committee opened hearings on it today.

But a proposed two-year extension of the doctor draft appeared to be in trouble. It has been sidetracked by the House Rules Committee. And strong opposition was arrayed against it in today's Senate hearing.

Spokesmen for the American Medical and Dental associations said military needs for physicians and dentists could be met under the regular draft, scheduled to expire June 30 unless extended.

The military has argued, however, that the doctor draft is essential to assure proper care for armed forces members.

On another military manpower front, Senate Democrats joined with Republicans in behind the scenes maneuvers to salvage President Eisenhower's compulsory reserve training program.

The administration wants to build a 2,900,000 member "minute man" reserve by 1960. But the measure has been put on the shelf in the House. The administration hopes the Senate will be able to get it started through the legislative machine again.

Other congressional news: Influence: Railroader Robert D. Young said he had discussed with the White House staff his subsequently successful fight for control of the New York Central. But he told the Senate securities subcommittee that White House aides told him President Eisenhower had ordered them "to maintain the strictest neutrality" in the control fight.

Natural Gas: Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) said exemption of big natural gas producers from federal regulation would mean higher rates and "enormous" losses to consumers. The House Interstate Commerce Committee has approved a bill to exempt all producers from government controls.

Security: Former Solicitor General Phillip B. Perlman, a Democrat, asked the Senate Civil Service Committee to draft a new security program and a new loyalty program for the federal government. He said the present security program has been perverted to serve "political ends."

Mrs. Lewis Smith, 85, widow of Lewis Smith of Equality, died Wednesday morning.

She was the stepmother of Mrs. O. R. Bourland and Herman S. Smith, both of Carrier Mills.

Tentative funeral plans are for Friday at 2 p. m. at the A. K. Moore funeral home in Equality. Rev. W. E. Fox will officiate, and burial will be in Cottage Grove cemetery.

Grandma, 88, Finds Life 'A Bit Drab' After 10 Years' Marriage to Male, 28

LOUISA, Ky. — Mrs. Mattie Lyons (Grandma) Sprouse, 88, who began her 10th year of marriage to Delbert (Shorty) Sprouse, 28, 60 years her junior, today said she's beginning to find life a "little bit drab."

Her chief worry is that Shorty, who was only 19 when they were married in a much publicized ceremony in 1946, "won't mind anymore."

"He'll mind his pap, but that's all," Granny said resignedly.

Her other worries are her health, which she admits is "failing," the new highway which "brings too many folks" to their formerly isolated home at Cat Hollow, 15 miles from here, and the fact that Shorty should be limited to veterans who saw war theater and combat duty.

The bill is sponsored by Sen. Glen O. Jones (R-Raleigh). It now goes to the House. The House has already passed a $150 million Korean veterans bonus and it has reached the Senate floor one stage away from passage.

Both bills would require bond issues to pay servicemen $10 per month for domestic duty from June 26, 1950, to July 26, 1953.

Germany Stands With Its Allies, Adenauer Assures; Willing to Talk to Soviets

Editor's Note: United Press Vice President Jack Bisco has obtained an exclusive interview with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in which, for the first time, the German chancellor gives publicly his own frank views toward Russia's sudden offer to give diplomatic recognition to the new West German republic. The interview is especially timely because it was just three years ago that Adenauer predicted in another interview with Bisco that a United West would lead Russia to realize the futility of the cold war and to prepare to negotiate. Bisco flew to Germany on the pre-inaugural flight of the new German Airline Lufthansa. The interview follows.

By JACK BISCO

United Press Staff Correspondent

BONN, Germany (UP) — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today assured the United States and the Western Allies that West Germany will stand solidly with them.

He said he was willing to attend a top level conference with the Soviet Union under proper circumstances, but he added with great determination:

"One thing is certain: We will faithfully observe the obligations taken up under the treaties with the West."

"On the other hand, we would be pleased if a contribution to the reduction of world tension could be achieved by an exchange of views with the Soviets."

Adenauer received me in the same carpet-covered office where I met him three years ago. He said that a meeting such as the one proposed by Russia must be preceded by an exchange of views with the Soviet Union.

"Take Some Time" He said that his government's reply to the Kremlin's bombshell note of Tuesday, inviting Western Germany to establish full diplomatic relations with Russia and calling for a conference with the 79-year-old chancellor, would "take some time."

Several questions will have to be clarified first," he said. Recalling that the Soviet note spoke of diplomatic, cultural and trade relations with Germany, Adenauer said:

"We must first have an exchange of views with the Soviet Union on these questions before I can go to meet them."

"For that reason there will be no immediate German-Russian conference."

I asked the chancellor whether he would go to Moscow himself or whether he would prefer to meet the Russian leaders in Bonn or in a neutral place like Geneva.

He leaned back and smiled. "That is a technical question, and of no great importance," — obviously implying that he would not refuse to travel to Russia if a conference is held.

He said he would explain his position in full to President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden when he meets them.

Amendments to Judicial Article On House Floor

SPRINGFIELD — Two proposed amendments of the judicial article of the Illinois constitution today reached the House floor from the House Executive committee.

The committee, which has wrangled for four months over a judicial article amendment, Wednesday voted to send out both without advising either defeat or passage.

If either proposal is passed by both the House and Senate, it would be submitted to the people at the 1956 election.

The proposals sent out were: A much-changed version of the joint bar associations' court reform plan, originally aimed at simplifying the present complex court system and at providing non-partisan selection of judges by lay-lawyer nominating commissions and appointment by the governor.

An amendment sponsored by Reps. Samuel H. Shapiro (D-Kankakee) and Jack Bairstow (D-Waukegan) which would leave Supreme, Appellate and "such other" courts as the General Assembly may establish; and require non-partisan election of judges with the votes on Supreme, Appellate and Circuit court judges "cumulative" downstate to assure minority representation.

Powell Amendment Rep. Paul Powell (D-Vienna) offered a final change in the bar associations' proposal which the committee adopted, making the two amendments voted out by the committee nearly identical.

Powell's change would permit the Legislature to establish any other court as it saw fit, similar to the Shapiro-Bairstow plan.

Action Resumed After Session Lasting Through the Night

SPRINGFIELD — Peace appeals were turned down by both sides today as the roughest and longest filibuster in the memory of the Illinois House droned on to stall action on a crowded legislative calendar.

Speaker Warren L. Wood (R-Plainfield) said at this stage he would "personally oppose" any remedy which might resolve the filibusters objections.

Wood said that to offer any remedy or give any ground now would establish "a precedent that will remain to harass this Legislature forever."

Wood made his comment after Rep. Robert E. Romano (D-Chicago), one of the chief objectors to the Chicago convention hall bills which started the filibuster, appeared for a halt.

Romano said the filibusters could now "retire with honor." He read a Chicago newspaper story which reported a private group plans to build a 70 million dollar fair, exposition and sports hall.

Romano said the private group's plans explained why supporters of the public convention hall bills "pushed them through with such reckless abandon."

The Chicagoan said members of the House who have ridiculed the filibusters should publicly apologize to them. He said their fight had brought to the attention of the House the mistake made in passing the bills.

General Peace Moves Afoot Rep. Noble W. Lee (R-Chicago) disagreed with Wood and said supporters of the bills have adopted an "intransigent attitude" toward the filibusters. He said objectors to the bills have drafted an amendment which is a "highly reasonable one."

The filibuster was resumed at 10 a. m. when the House reconvened, after a night session that lasted until 3 a. m. today.

Rep. John K. Morris (D-Chicago), leader of the filibuster, said his objections to the Chicago convention hall bills which started the filibuster Tuesday, had not yet been resolved.

Meanwhile, behind the scenes efforts were underway to end the drawn out affair.

Before the legislators came back to work they made a number of moves to try and head off the filibuster:

1. House leaders met former Gov. John Stelle to ask Stelle's help in.

This Family Could Use A Good Light Sleeper

MILWAUKEE — — — Members of the Victor Landru family
awoke one morning too soundly for their own good.

They awoke one morning recently to find that a burglar had entered their apartment during the night and made off with seven guns, a typewriter and $4.60. The cash was in the pocket of Landru's trousers, which hung near his bed.

Only the week before a burglar
had taken $42 and two wrist
watches from the Landru apartment while the family slept.

A passkey apparently was used
to enter the apartment both times,
police said.

College Education Funds Plentiful, Official Reports

TROY, N. Y. — — — Many
more high school students who feel they can't afford college educations would change their minds
if they were only aware of "the abundant resources" available for financial aid, according to a college official.

"Amazingly few" are aware of these resources, said John F.
Morse, director of admissions at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.
He added that the number who believe they can't go to college is small compared to the "enormous number" who could.

Morse called it "a paradox" that young people look forward to buying homes and automobiles on a loan or installment basis almost as soon as they get their first jobs but
"fail to realize that the answer to many of their college financial problems lies in college loan funds." He said "most of our finest colleges" have them.

Repay After Graduation

At RPI, for example, a student may borrow enough to pay three years' tuition, and he doesn't have to begin paying interest — three per cent — or repay the loan until he leaves college.

Since college is a "major investment" and many students cannot hope to pay for it in the four years they are in college, "they must expect to finance it over a longer period of time," Morse said.

In a booklet, "Financing a College Education," Morse also points out other means of financial aid —
scholarships, awards and employment during the school year and summer.

From these resources, he said,
able students may well pay for during their college years, from one-half to two-thirds of their education. The rest of the cost in many cases, could be met by help
from parents, savings accumulated by a student during high school years and often by additional aid of so-called outside scholarships, such as government,
service club and employee education programs set up by industries.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Stevenson's Candidacy Appears Definitely Confirmed;
Gen. Tom Wilson Cleared Of Corruption Charge.

WASHINGTON. — It was no accident that a rash of stories came out of Washington and Chicago recently that Adlai Stevenson would definitely run again.

As early as April 20 this column quoted Adlai's son Borden that his father would run again. But the recent rash came from Stevenson's
law partner and made it clear that whether Eisenhower runs or not, Stevenson will.

Various other Democratic candidates have been lying low, waiting to see whether Ike would run. But Stevenson has decided not to wait.
In the first place, he doesn't think
it's fair to the other Democrats,
many of whom, such as Gov. Averell Harriman of New York and Gov. Mennen Williams of Michigan, are close personal friends.

Second, he thinks it's only fair
to the Democratic party to have its potential line-up known well in advance, so as to require no last-minute fence-building as in 1952.

Finally, Stevenson tells friends
quite frankly that he has a lot to learn. Despite his experience as governor of Illinois, as assistant
to Naval Secretary Frank Knox,
and his work in the State Department, he says he found he had a lot to learn during the 1952 campaign. So he's having sessions with such close friends as Arthur Schlesinger of Harvard and ex-Sen. Bill Benton of Connecticut to get ready for 1956.

Note: Most Democrat leaders
figure Adlai will be hard to stop
for the Democratic nomination,
that the only man who might have a chance to do so is Senator Kefauver of Tennessee.

MINKS IN REVERSE

The Commerce Department's
new deputy undersecretary, Brig.
Gen. Thomas B. Wilson, has gone through the biggest government investigation since the days of mink coats, deep freezes and five per-centers.

It was touched off by a Portuguese firm called Atlantica, which threatened to bring sensational corruption charges against Wilson
in connection with a $3,500,000 lawsuit. The company is suing the U. S. government for canceling a tungsten contract.

U. S. government agents chased all over Europe, investigating the corruption charges. They finally dug up proof that the whole story
was a fantastic blackmail plot and cleared Wilson's name in time for his promotion last month to deputy undersecretary of commerce.

Here is the amazing, inside
story:

Wilson was former U. S. procurement chief in Europe, at which time he was approached by two promoters who wanted to sell 720, 000 pounds of tungsten a year to the U. S. strategic stockpile. The two international promoters, William Graham and Lewis Gordon, claimed the tungsten would come from a mine in Spain.

Since tungsten is vital to the production of jet engines, Wilson made a special inspection trip to Spain
to size up the mine, and concluded
it couldn't produce the promised tungsten. He recommended against the deal.

In revenge, Graham and Gordon signed an affidavit, charging that Wilson had met them in Madrid's Montestorial bar and had demanded a cut from the contract.

When all the furor and investigation was over, however, the U. S.
agents discovered that Wilson was actually miles away from the Montestorial bar getting a suit tailored.
They also discovered that Gordon,
himself, who said he'd had a conversation in the bar, was actually playing chess several blocks from the bar at the time he was supposed to be talking to Wilson in the bar.

SECRET CONVERSATION

The clincher, however, was a recorded conversation on the agents picked up over a secret micro in Gordon's room in the Cumberland hotel in London.

This column has been able to obtain this conversation. It shows that a mysterious Spaniard, named Rafael Duran, stopped in to see Gordon. They talked about black-mailing General Wilson and double-crossing Gordon's partner, Graham.

Duran suggested that the incriminating affidavit might be sold to Wilson, himself, who might pay blackmail money to spare himself embarrassment.

"And the general, won't he pay?" the Spaniard asked Gordon,
referring to Wilson.

"If he thinks his position is strong, he won't pay," replied Gordon.

"You go see Wilson alone," suggested Duran. "Do you realize
though, your partner, Graham,
might kill you if he discovers you're dealing with Wilson?"

"Well, that's the risk," retorted Gordon. That is the amazing secret tape recording secured by U.
S. government agents who were given the job of clearing up the charges brought against the deputy
undersecretary of commerce.

Confronted with the recorded conversation, Gordon later confessed that the charges against Wilson had been part of a blackmail attempt. Thus, government sleuths proved their man was innocent instead of guilty.

Bids on the first phase of the development, comprising the first five buildings (four residence halls and a dining hall-student service unit) at the left side of the picture, will be opened at the university June 21 at 2:30 p. m. The addition of the other seven housing units in the development will depend upon future capital appropriations. (SIU News Photo)

U. S. Task Force of Long-Range Thunderjets Based on Formosa

TOKYO — Long-range U. S. F84G fighter bombers designed to carry atomic bombs and prepared to fly "maximum effort missions" are now based on Formosa, the U. S. Far East Air Forces disclosed today.

A "task force" of the Super-Thunderjets landed on the Nationalist island Wednesday from Okinawa, an Air Force announcement said. It said the planes—the number was not disclosed — "in minutes were capable of flying a maximum effort mission."

The F84G can carry an atom bomb a distance equal to that between New York and Moscow. It is designed for refueling in flight. Four of the Thunderjets set a new non-stop record for jet fighters by flying 4,640 miles from Japan to Australia last month.

The announcement said the Thunderjets "will fly daily training sorties" while based in Formosa. It did not reveal how long the planes would remain on the Nationalist Chinese island.

The Air Force said the Thunderjets were moved to Formosa in a "continuing 5th Air Force deployment exercise to maintain and increase unit mobility and operational potential throughout the Far East."

Informed Air Force sources said there is no plan at the present to base the Thunderjets permanently on the island.

The 5th Air Force has been rotating Sabrejet fighter squadrons in and out of Formosa since January. A new Sabrejet squadron arrived in Formosa earlier this week.

An authoritative American source in Taipei said Wednesday that a "handful" of Marine-Navy pilots also are undergoing "familiarization" training in Formosa.

Stratton Signs Appropriation Bills

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. William G. Stratton has signed into law appropriation bills for the Illinois Youth Commission, State Department of Labor and speaker of the House.

The governor Wednesday also signed an appropriation bill for a $6,000 a year investigator of entrants in the Illinois colt stakes leading state fair harness race event.

The Youth Commission appropriation is $9,410,132, up $2,400,000 from 1953-55; the Labor Department budget is $22,361,658; and the House speaker's budget for maintaining House administration is $20,000.

Filibuster Continues In Illinois House

halted the filibustering efforts of Rep. Paul A. Ziegler (D-Carmi). Stelle is from McLeansboro, only 20 miles from Carmi.

2 Rep. Paul Powell (D-Vienna), a sponsor of the convention hall bills, met with Ziegler. Neither would say what the meeting concerned, except that Powell said it would not involve any amendments to the convention hall measures.

3 Rep. John K. Morris (D-Chadwick), who led the filibuster with Ziegler, tried to get sponsors of the convention hall bills to agree to amendments which would let downstate fairs continue to share in the state fair and exposition fund. The convention hall bills at present would rule out most downstate fairs from participation in this fund and channel most of the fund's money into the Cook county fair and exposition authority for the hall and its expositions.

Ziegler said his continuation of filibuster tactics might depend on his meeting with Powell. He said he's been filibustering "mainly" because the convention hall bills were called after he, Morris and 16 others formally asked they be held up.

"We asked them last week to hold up these bills until we had a chance to consider the tax increase and see where this money's coming from and where it's going," Ziegler said. "But they went ahead and passed them, appropriating 34 million dollars from Chicago and then they expect us to explain a tax increase to our people."

House Dean Frank Holten (D-East St. Louis) and other veterans said there has never been anything to match the session's filibusters. Holten Wednesday told the House it is "a disgrace" and the members doing it should go back to "plowing because you don't belong here."

There was considerable horse-play during the slow-moving session. Rep. Carl H. Prehs (D-Pana) came into the House Wednesday evening in a nightgown and cap, carrying a candle.

Later, several legislators tried out the coats that House Speaker Warren L. Wood (R-Plainfield) ordered set up in the galleries. But most dozed in their seats.

Molotov Tells French Russia Will Accept Bid to Conference

PARIS (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov today indicated to French Premier Edgar Faure that Russia will accept the west's invitation to a top-level Big Four meeting in Geneva July 18-21.

Authoritative French sources said Molotov told Faure and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay at a hastily arranged lunch meeting at the Quai d'Orsay that Russia has no fundamental objections to the dates and places proposed by the West.

The authoritative sources, who were present at the meeting, said Molotov told the French leaders that East and West must forget past misunderstandings and concern themselves with the future.

New Record on Number of Legislative Bills

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The Illinois Legislature today began building a new record for the number of bills introduced in a single session.

A total of 2,062 proposed laws had been placed in legislative hopers Wednesday, with more expected in the closing weeks of the session. Previous high was 2,044, chalked up in the 67th General Assembly in 1951.

The 1955 record thus far includes 837 Senate bills, topping the 1951 mark of 786, and 1,225 House bills, still short of the 1,258 introduced in 1951.

Bills introduced Wednesday would:

Set up a State Department of Mental Health. The state's mental health services now are operated under the Public Welfare Department.

KIEL, Germany (AP) — The Soviet Union will return 62 American naval vessels, received during World War II under the lend-lease agreement, to the U. S. Navy at this north German Baltic Sea port starting next month, it was announced Wednesday.

The Schleswig-Holstein state government said the vessels, 56 torpedo boats and six small ships equipped to hunt submarines, are currently stationed in Soviet and Soviet-occupied ports in the Baltic Sea area. The announcement said the ships would be returned in groups of 10 to 15 vessels during the next three months.

Germany Stands With Its Allies: Adenauer

both next week—if he was asked to explain by the two Western statesmen.

"I do not know what questions they will ask me, but if they want to talk about this subject, I will certainly do so," he said.

"A reply to the Soviet Union, however, requires the prior clarification of a number of questions," he explained, because the Soviet note's reference to the establishment of normal relations with Western Germany was "too general."

Prophetic Statement

Adenauer spoke of the new Soviet move when I read to him a statement which he made three years ago, a statement which already seems prophetic.

On October 2, 1952, the German chancellor told the United Press: "I am firmly convinced that (the late) Soviet Premier Josef Stalin—once the West has united and the Atlantic community becomes strong enough—realizes that the cold war does not pay in the long run. Then he (Stalin) will be prepared to negotiate. If we continue our way followed during the past two years, then I am convinced that the day for such negotiations of the West with Moscow is not far away."

Adenauer recalled having made this statement and said that "every word of it is still true."

The West German cabinet, in a statement issued following a meeting earlier Wednesday, had already said that if the Russian invitation were accepted, Germany would proceed only in consultation with her allies.

Supports Eisenhower's Remark

He supported President Eisenhower's remark Wednesday that a four-power meeting with Russia could serve as a means for establishing peace in the world. He said he was in full agreement with Mr. Eisenhower that Germany would stand by her treaties with the West.

Commenting on world politics and the forthcoming meeting of the Western Big Three with the Russians, Adenauer made these observations:

1. The United States and Soviet Russia should get together and agree on a formula for controlling world disarmament. The United States, he said, should take the lead in the drive along the lines of Eisenhower's proposal of March 1953.

2. This Big Two agreement on disarmament would pave the way for a settlement of other problems like security and Germany.

3. The forthcoming four-power meeting will probably last long and require a lot of patience on the part of both the participants of the conference and the public. But the conference as such is already an element of relaxation of tension, he said.

4. The Western European Union and its scheme for controlled limited armament and mutual assistance is an excellent pattern for a European security system.

5. Germany's reunification is a necessary prerequisite for the establishment of lasting peace in Europe and the world.

Calls On Americans

Adenauer called on the American public not to believe that the Atlantic and the Pacific fronts were different and could be looked upon differently.

"Quite on the contrary: They are like communicating pipes—if you weaken the European front, the enemy (which is the same on both fronts) will show up stronger in the Asiatic theater," Adenauer said.

The chancellor smiled proudly when I commented on the great reconstruction and the general progress which had been made by Germany since our last talk. He commented especially pleased that I had flown on the new German airline which promises still another link between Germany and the United States.

He said he regarded the return of Lufthansa to the air as a symbol of his country's continuous progress.

Michigan State Player Signs Bonus Contract

CHICAGO (AP)—Robert Powell, 21, hard-hitting Michigan State outfielder sought by 15 of the 16 major league clubs, signed a bonus contract with the Chicago White Sox today.

Powell was the second bonus player ever signed by the Sox, joining first baseman Ron Jackson of Kalamazoo, Mich., who signed a bonus contract last year.

Powell hit .439 in the Big Ten this year, .348 in 1954 and .340 in 1953. He stands 6-feet 1-inch and throws and bats right-handed.

Charles Comiskey, vice president of the White Sox, said Powell would work out with the club Friday, return to Lansing for final exams, and join the Sox permanently June 17. He is a native of Flint, Mich.

The Sox automatically made room for Powell on their roster in the three-for-one trade with Washington which sent Clint Courtney, Johnny Groth and Bob Chakales to the Nats in exchange for Jim Busby.

Seek Match Race For Swaps, Nashua

CHICAGO (AP)—Swaps and Nashua may get another chance to prove which is the better horse in a "Kentucky Derby re-match" here late this summer if their owners can agree on a date.

Both owners indicated they would like to duel again if a date could be arranged which wouldn't conflict with their present schedules.

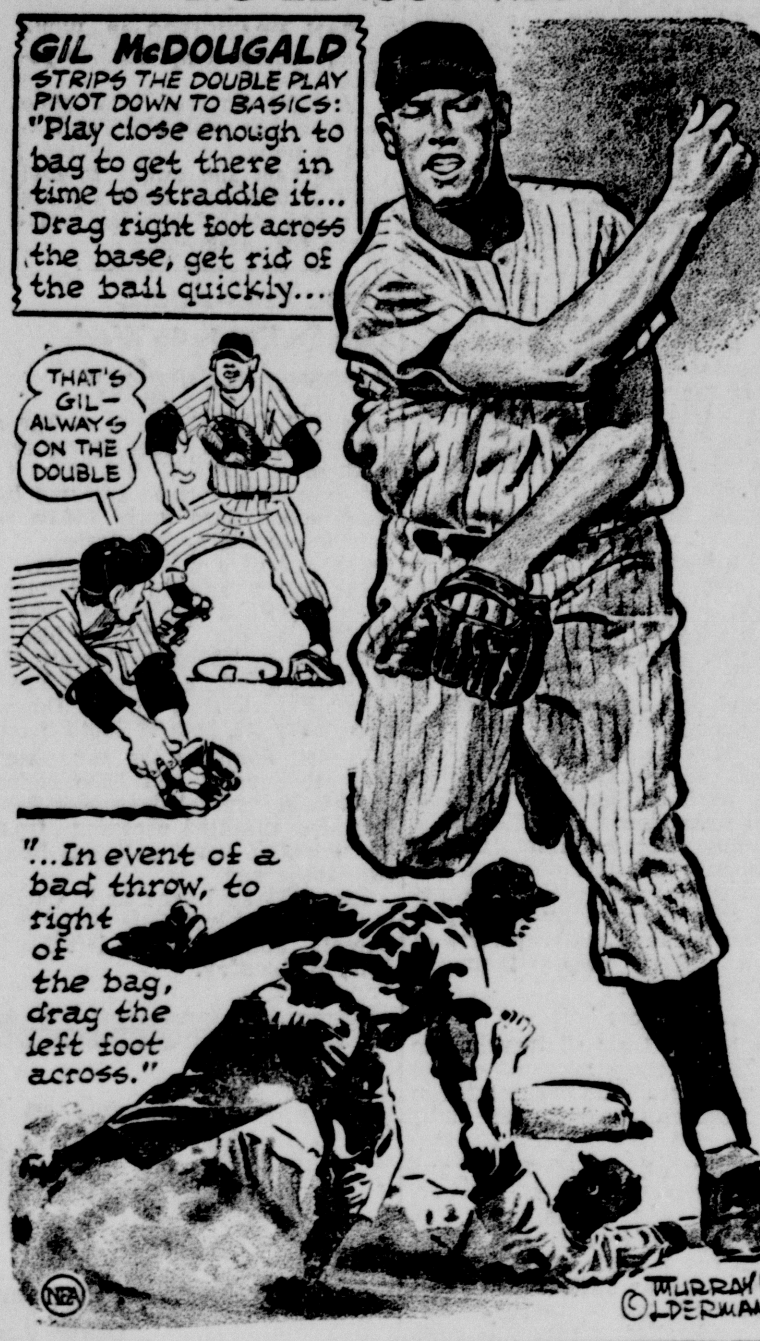

Swaps beat Nashua by a length and a half in the Derby, but was not entered in the Preakness, which Nashua won, or in the Belmont Stakes which Nashua is favored to win this week end.

Benjamin F. Lindheimer, executive director of Washington Park, said a match race between the nation's outstanding three-year-olds "looks promising" at Washington Park in late August.

The race would be for a purse of $75,000, winner take all, over the Derby distance of a mile and a quarter on a flat track.

BIG LEAGUE WAY

Dodgers Turn Down $250,000 For Double Play Combination

NEW YORK (NEA)—In professional baseball, the rich get richer and the poor finish in the second division.

The Dodgers, seriously threatening to make it a runaway race in the National League, rejected $250,000 for their Montreal double play combination, Chico Fernandez and Charley Neal. Identical $125,000 bids were made for the stylish youngsters, the Indians seeking Fernandez, the Red Sox Neal.

There are several outstanding major league prospects in the Brooklyn chain, giving you the idea that things are going to become tougher for NL rivals before they get better.

Standouts among them are outfielders Bert Harmon, currently batting .333 for St. Paul, and Gino Cimoli, hitting .322 and throwing like Carl Furillo from center field for Montreal. Another is Don Drysdale, a big 18-year-old right-hander who is an early winner for the Royals. A year ago, Drysdale was pitching for his high school in Bakersfield, Calif.

Getting back to the organized game's newest Gold Dust Twins, Fernandez and Neal would play shortstop and second base, respectively, for a half-dozen major league clubs.

Neal, 24, spent last season with St. Paul, was switched to Montreal this trip to be acquainted with Fernandez, 23.

"We figure they may come up together as the Brooklyn double play makers," explains Fresno Thompson, vice-president in charge of the Brooks' farms.

Incomparable Pee Wee Reese is 36, can't go on forever, especially at shortstop.

"Junior Gilliam has played the outfield well," adds Thompson, the old pro in the Suberbas' front office, "and as an established major leaguer could be dealt."

Fernandez and Neal being in Triple A is a reminder of how rich Flatbush has been in infielders. Don Zimmer, confined to the parent club's dugout, has waited seven years for Reese to run out of pet.

rol. The Cincinnati Dutchman was the most valuable player in every minor league in which he played.

When Jackie Robinson requires a rest at third base, he is replaced by hustling Don Hoak. Only a slip of Branch Rickey's tongue caused him to sell Chico Carrasquel to the White Sox at the bargain basement price of $25,000. Bobby Morgan was peddled to the Phillies, Billy Cox to the Orioles.

Fernandez, rated second to none on defense, is batting .296. Fernandez, in his fifth season as a pro, was recommended by another pretty good infielder, Billy Herman, who saw him playing winter ball in his native Cuba. He stole 100 bases in his first four years in the organized game, led the International League in doubles last term with 44.

"Fernandez is an aggressive baserunner," says Walter Alton, "which is something you rarely see in the minors."

For a skillful double play man, Neal, out of Longview, Tex., and in his sixth campaign, hits a remarkably long ball. Now batting .274, he was the runner-up in triples in the American Association in 1954 with 13 and in stolen bases with 20.

Alton says all Neal has to learn to do is refrain from going after bad balls and thus reduce his strikeouts.

With accomplished infielders so scarce practically everywhere outside of Brooklyn, Chico Fernandez and Charley Neal are a pair of pretty fair country ballplayers to be in the minors.

Nashua May Face Eight Opponents In Belmont Stakes

NEW YORK (AP)—It appeared likely today that as many as eight three-year-olds will be lined up against Belair stud's brilliant Nashua Saturday in the Belmont Stakes, the third jewel in racing's triple crown classic, with second-place money the big lure.

The surprise withdrawal of Hilton A. Dabson's Nance's Lad from the list of probable starters Wednesday created a flurry of activity around racing Secretary Jimmy Kilroe's office with the strong possibility that the Belmont field will be composed of nine instead of the previously anticipated four or five.

Those regarded as certain starters along with Nashua are Clifford Moores' Traffic Judge, Laudy Lawrence's improving Jabneh, Howard Weinstein's Mr. Al L. and Cain Boy Stable's disappointing Flying Fury. Now listed as likely to start are King Ranch's Retamero, Clearwater Stable's Portersville, John McShain's Blazing Count and C. V. Whitney's Little Dell.

Of course, most of these horses have only an outside chance of beating Nashua in the $100,000 added race and the rush to enter some of them indicates a keen battle for second place and the $20,000 that goes with it.

The gruelling mile-and-a-half Belmont, longest of the "triple crown" races, is called the "test of the champion" and there are few horses around willing to dispute Nashua's claim to the title.

Ezzard Charles Wins Decision Over Johnny Holman

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles, fresh from an avenging victory over big Johnny Holman, said today he would resume his campaign for another title shot "in four or five weeks."

"I'll fight anybody—Don Cockrell, Nino Valdes or Archie Moore," declared 33-year-old Ezzard who triumphed over Holman at a unanimous 10-round decision at the Music Hall.

Holman, 27, had stopped the ex-champ in the ninth round at Miami Beach on April 27, but Wednesday night in their nationally televised and broadcast return bout he was practically handcuffed by Ezzard's change in style.

Instead of fighting upright as usual, Charles showed his hometown fans he could go into an opponent head down—in Rocky Marciano fashion—and press him at close quarters. Holman, who needs plenty of room for his looping punches, could get little power or accuracy into his blows.

There were no knockdowns. Ezzard, favored at 9-5, was hurt only once, by an overhanded right to the head in the fourth round. But he came out fighting in the fifth. He gave Johnny a body beating in nearly every session.

Don Newcombe Best Bet in 21 Years to Win 30 Games; Beats Reds for 10-0 Record

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

Dazzler Don Newcombe was the best bet in 21 years today to win 30 games in one season.

The Dodger ace, with 10 victories and no defeats in the first third of the 1955 season, was in a much more strategic spot than Dizzy Dean of the Cardinals was back in 1934 when he had a 30-7 mark for the "Gas House Gang" but had won only seven games at this stage of the race.

No pitcher since Dean has hit the magic 30-game level and of those who came close, none was as well off as Big Newk at the one-third pole in the race. Robin Roberts of the Phils, who won 28 games in 1952, was 7-3 at this stage. Hal Newhouse of the Tigers, a 29-game winner in 1944, had an 8-4 mark and Bucky Walters of the 1939 Reds, 27 wins for the campaign, was a modest 7-4 when that season was one-third gone.

Dominatin' Don's record borders on the fantastic when it is considered that he was out two full weeks from April 24 until May 6 with what he called a sore arm and Manager Walt Alton suggested might be a sore head. Newk, in the doghouse so securely he was even suspended and fined a day's pay for refusing to pitch batting practice, missed at least three regular turns when his arm was bothering him.

Huris Four-Hitter
Wednesday night Newcombe flashed a four-hitter against the Redlegs, beating them 3-1 and also contributing two hits to boost his batting average to .400. He struck out seven and walked none and missed a shutout on Ted Kluszewski's 16th homer. In 81 innings he has walked only nine batters. Wanta hear more? He retired the last 16 men to face him, scored the first run, drove in the final one. And all in a cold night-long drizzle.

Attlee Renamed Head of Party
LONDON (AP)—Socialist members of Parliament today unanimously re-elected 72-year-old former Prime Minister Clement Attlee as leader of the British Labor party.

Attlee's position as party head for the past 20 years was threatened by the recent Socialist election defeat. Left and right-wing extremists of the party blamed the defeat on weak leadership and Attlee's failure to win party unity.

But today, a meeting of nearly all the 277 Laborite members of Parliament formally expressed faith in the veteran Labor party leader.

The homer by Evers gave Don Johnson a well-earned relief victory for Baltimore. He pitched four hit balls for the seven innings he worked.

Long's homer at Pittsburgh gave rookie Ronnie Kline an eight-hit triumph, his third. He struck out eight in a duel with Bob Rush, who struck out nine and gave up but five hits before going out for a ninth innig pinch hitter.

Bobby Hofman hit a pinch-single to deliver the winning run for the Giants after errors by Alvin Dark and rookie Gail Harris gave Milwaukee five "outs" and two earned runs in the ninth. Harris earlier hit a homer, his first.

Jim Piersall's fourth hit, a double, and Sam Dente's fumble and wild throw on a grounder by Billy Goodman gave Boston its winning run. Gene Stephens hit a three-run Boston homer. Vic Wertz, Ralph Kiner, and Al Rosen hit Cleveland home runs.

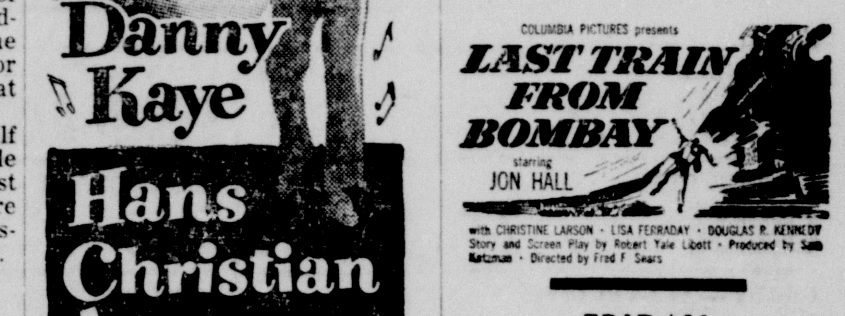

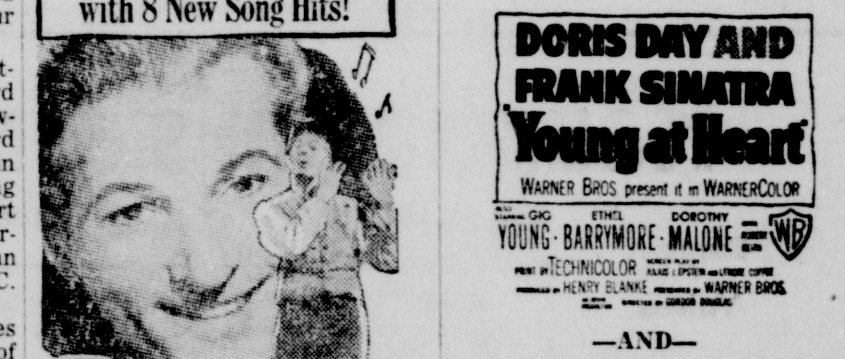

Turley walked 10 including four in a weird fourth when Detroit scored twice. Rookie Frank Lary gave up eight hits and struck out six to win his sixth game.

Slaughter's drive gave Cloyd Boyer a six-hit triumph and broke up a duel with Bob Porterfield. Clint Courtney in his first time at bat for Washington hit a homer while Harry Simpson homered for K. C.

Woman is Killed, Three Hurt by Runaway Auto

GALESBURG, Ill. — A coroner's inquest was scheduled today into the death of a woman killed by a runaway Cadillac which raced through a downtown intersection injuring three other persons and damaging three cars before being brought to a halt.

The driver of the runaway car, D. A. Smith, 50, Galesburg, was released without charge after the accident Wednesday, pending outcome of the inquest.

Coroner C. G. Bower said an empty whisky bottle was found in Smith's car, and he asked Smith to take a test to determine the alcoholic content of his blood.

Smith's attorney refused to let him take the test.

Smith told police who questioned him that the accelerator on the car stuck as he started through the intersection after stopping to let off a woman passenger.

Mrs. Lucille McNeil, about 45, was killed by the runaway car. Mrs. A. P. Taylor, 61, Mrs. John R. McMichael, 48, and Mrs. Eunice Wilkins were injured. All were from Galesburg.

56-Hour Week for Firemen Measure On Senate Floor

SPRINGFIELD — A bill setting a 56-hour week for downtown firemen today went to the Senate floor with committee approval, despite vigorous objection from downtown states.

The measure was sponsored by Sen. Clyde C. Trager (R-Peoria) who told the committee Wednesday the bill "was long overdue."

"Firemen are never off duty... they are subject to call at any time... at least this will give them some time to spend at home with their families," he said.

The bill also was endorsed by Rubin Soderstrom, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

But Mayor Lloyd Welch of Bloomington told the committee the 56-hour week for firemen would mean another $36,000 added to the city budget, which already is running a $75,000 or $80,000 deficit.

Welch said he was not opposed to a shorter work week for the firemen, but said it would result in "a serious economic problem."

Moline Mayor Paul Johnson estimated the bill would add another $78,900 to the city budget, and said it should not be passed "unless the Legislature wants to provide the money."

Injures Foot

Clay B. Annis, investigator for the alcohol and tobacco tax unit of the Internal Revenue Service, injured his foot while leaving his office at the city hall yesterday and is a patient today at Harrisburg hospital, where it was learned he fractured a bone and suffered a separation in the foot.

Dulles Names Lawyer to Replace Corsi

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today put Pierce J. Gerety, a 41-year-old Connecticut lawyer, in charge of the administration's lagging refugee program.

Gerety replaces Edward J. Corsi of New York who was fired by Dulles on Easter Sunday after only 90 days in the State Department. Apparently he will, however, have more authority than Corsi wielded.

The new appointee will serve under the jurisdiction of Scott McLeod, chief of the State Department's Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs, whose handling of the refugee program has been under fire in Congress.

But, the State Department said, Gerety will have "complete authority and responsibility for the refugee program."

Gerety, who has been general counsel of the Civil Service Commission, will have the title of deputy administrator for the Refugee Relief Act of 1953. McLeod is administrator.

Corsi broke with the State Department over what he charged was McLeod's failure to push the refugee program. He said McLeod, a former FBI agent, took a policeman's attitude toward persons seeking admittance to the United States.

McLeod and Dulles counter-charged that Corsi tried to bypass the law and refused to work in harness with others.

FCC Receives Thousands of Letters on Pay TV

WASHINGTON — The American public, responding generously to an invitation to speak its mind, flooded the Federal Communications Commission today with nearly 16,000 separate "comments" on pay-as-you-see television.

Opponents and proponents of pay-TV expressed equally strong convictions. The commission's files contained thousands of postcards and letters from individual viewers who asserted, "We pay enough for television now. Don't make us pay more."

On the other side of the argument, there were thousands of individuals who said subscription TV would bring better programs and should be given a fair trial.

The FCC invited "all interested parties" to submit their views last Feb. 11. The response was so overwhelming that early in April the commission was compelled to extend the deadline for filing from May 9 until 5 p. m. today. While no tabulation has been made, spot checks indicate pro and con replies were about evenly balanced.

Early Stonefort History Outlined

an imaginary journey to his grandfather's log cabin. He told of the size, 16x16 feet, the clay floor, stick and clay chimney, and explained about their concern about keeping a fire because a new one was hard to start. He explained that punk made from the ash tree was kept burning and explained that this was the derivation of the expression "Not much punk." He said that logs of hickory, elm and maple were kept burning in the yard to insure the needed fire. The center of these logs burn first leaving the outer bark as a protection against rain, etc. The home of the pioneer was expanded as the need arose by the addition of a lean-to.

Wesley Trammel was born in 1818 and lived to be 72. He was a horse doctor and legislator from the district and was buried within 200 yards of his birthplace.

Mrs. Sibyl Whitley told of her great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Webber, who came from Scotland and Germany and settled in Galatia, Ill. Their four sons were born there—Dick, who remained in Galatia, Nell of Fayetteville, Arch of Stonefort, and Elijah who remained in Galatia. These four men became important in the tobacco industry. Tobacco was the important crop of Saline county at that time. They were processors, packers, and exporters of tobacco. They owned barns in the three towns.

Tells Experiences
She told of their all traveling to Galatia for family reunions always taking along a little organ (still in her possession) which her aunts played.

She recalled the Soldiers and Sailors Reunion with its big barbecue and tent encampment; the first telephone in Stonefort which was in her father's general store; her working as switchboard relief operator for 25c a day; her earliest recollection of acting as clerk in the express office run by her father; and her brothers pushing carts filled with gallons of whisky to be shipped on to Harrisburg after Harrisburg went dry.

She told of going to school to A. L. Kelly who started the Academy at Crab Orchard and later teaching in Stonefort and her own experience as teacher in Stonefort, Marion, and Harrisburg.

Earl Thornton explained that most of his boyhood was spent in the neighboring county of Hardin, that he did not know too much about early Stonefort because he was a newcomer. He seemed to have remembered many of the humorous stories about old settlers and it seemed that the talks of the other discussion leaders brought these to his mind. Everyone thought these incidents were related too well to be merely hearsay.

Still Uses First Well
Mrs. Eliza Dunn Crebs told of the early industries and products of the community; the mud boat trail from Shawneetown to Cape Girardeau which ran at the foot of the cliff below the Old Stone Fort. She explained that provisions were brought to Stonefort by means of this trail during the winter months. She also told of the Irish Settlement that once existed on the farm where she now lives and that the well she now uses was the first dug in the area.

Mrs. Crebs was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Craig, who related the story about one Stonefort family who put the wash to soak early each Monday. While it was soaking they went to the drug store to get some whisky—on many Saturdays it was still soaking.

Many other incidents of historical interest both serious and humorous in nature were brought out in the discussions.

Four Face Firing, Prosecution for Military Graft

WASHINGTON — The number of military employees facing prosecution or possible firing in the wake of a Senate investigation of graft in the handling of uniform contracts stood at four today.

The Army Wednesday night swiftly suspended clothing expert Ferdinand Tartaglia from a high-paying job and the Air Force announced courtmartial charges against Capt. Raymond Wool, a contracting officer.

The action against Tartaglia came a few hours after a Chicago military capmaker, Harry Lev, testified Tartaglia was his partner in an unsuccessful business venture while at the same time dealing with him as a government representative.

Wool had been accused in hearsay testimony of getting $50,000 from Lev in a $2,000,000 cap deal, an accusation both he and Lev denied.

Attends Christmas Seal Sale Conference Held at 'The Haven'

Mrs. Naida Seright Upchurch, Harrisburg, attended a special conference concerned with techniques involved in Christmas Seal sale, at The Haven at Crab Orchard lake near Carbondale on June 7. Mrs. Upchurch is Seal sale chairman of the Saline County Tuberculosis association.

The meetings are held annually for key people in tuberculosis association work throughout the state and serve as a means of in-service training. Representatives from 15 counties were present at the discussions centering around program activities and fund-raising techniques. Conducting a successful Christmas Seal sale is one of the essential components of any well-organized TB control programs in an area, since all activities of a tuberculosis association are financed by the sale of the penny Christmas Seal.

Light-Fingered Thief Steals $5 from Woman's Brassiere

SAN FRANCISCO — Willie Mae Benson complained to police today.

A light fingered thief stole $5 from her while she was taking a nap.

She said she awoke to find five $1 bills gone from a purse she had stuffed into her brassiere for safekeeping.

Three Teen-Agers, Two En Route to Wed, Arrested in Burglary

MOUNT OLIVE, Ill. — Three South Bend, Ind., teen-agers, two of them en route to Oklahoma to get married, were arrested by state police here early today as they attempted to burglarize the snack bar of a drive-in theater.

The trio was taken to Macoupin County jail at Carlinville where Sheriff Woodie Neighbors identified them as Theodore Bassett, 17, of Bremen, Ind., a suburb of South Bend; Paul Carles, 18, and Donna Miltenberg, 16, both of South Bend.

Bassett admitted the car which they were using had been stolen at Chicago several days ago. Bassett also admitted escaping from the detention home at South Bend two weeks ago.

The girl said she and Carles wanted to get married. They met Bassett and all three left South Bend Wednesday.

Youth Held for Stabbing Teacher In Back at Class

NEW YORK — Police today arrested a 17-year-old butcher boy and charged him with stabbing a physical education teacher in the back as the instructor stood at a classroom blackboard.

The teacher, James O'Farrell, 28, lay in dangerous condition at Knickerbocker Hospital but he identified his attacker when the youth was brought to his bedside.

The butcher boy was identified as Jose Vargas, known as "Chico Mambo."

Authorities said the boy was expelled four years ago as an incorrigible. He entered the gym where O'Farrell was conducting a class and created a disturbance, they said.

Another New York Bronx youth pleaded guilty Wednesday to second degree murder in the fatal shooting of 15-year-old William Blankenship Jr. on April 30.

The boy, Frank (Tarzan) Santana, 17, faces a sentence of 20 years to life for the murder of the youth, whose father had become a devoted civic worker against juvenile delinquency.

In still another youth-crime case three teen-agers pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the slaying of Murray Hoffman, 30, the father of three children who was killed during a holdup. They will be sentenced July 6.

Elizabeth Opens Parliament; Pledges Accord with U. S.

LONDON — Queen Elizabeth II opened Britain's new Parliament today with a solemn pledge of her government's "close accord" with the United States while "confidently looking forward to fruitful negotiations with the Soviet Union."

Former Prime Minister Winston Churchill did not attend the opening of Parliament today for the first time in many years. A spokesman said Churchill "preferred to stay home with Lady Churchill" who broke her left wrist in a fall on Tuesday.

Gray skies and a paralyzing 12-day-old railroad strike set the mood for the bleak air of austerity which dimmed the traditional splendor of the first State opening of Parliament following last month's general elections.

Trimmed drastically in the emergency was much of the public pageantry surrounding the opening of Parliament and the launching of Prime Minister Sir

Second Pull on Trigger Fatal

CHICAGO — L. C. Kirk, 27, put a revolver to his head Wednesday and told his wife "Don't worry, nothing's going to happen."

There were two bullets in the gun. Kirk spun the cylinder once and pulled the trigger. Nothing happened. He spun the cylinder again, pressed the trigger, and sent a bullet into his brain. He died before reaching a hospital.

Anthony Eden's new government.

Instead of the brilliant state procession in a gold carriage, the sovereign and the Duke of Edinburgh rode to the houses of Parliament in a closed black limousine.

The Queen's "speech from the throne," meticulously prepared in advance by Eden and his ministers, broadly embraced the foreign and domestic policies which the new government plans to follow.

Elaine Coady Wins Highest Honors in Springfield Schools

Miss Elaine Coady, Springfield, granddaughter of the late Rev. J. A. Musgrave and Mrs. Elizabeth Musgrave, received the highest honors of any student graduating from the four high schools of Springfield, Ill. She was crowned queen of the 1955 Midwest Home Show in ceremonies held at the state fairground last Sunday evening, June 5.

The honor came as a result of her high scholastic standing and activities as a high school senior. Besides receiving the crown as Queen of the Home Show, from Governor Stratton, she receives a $1,000 scholarship and will use it to attend the University of Illinois where she intends to major in music. She plans to teach and possibly to branch out in a related field, such as television.

Miss Coady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coady, 2109 South State street, Springfield, also received a scholarship which was awarded upon graduation. She is a member of the National Honor society, a member of a Greek letter fraternity, and served as treasurer of her class during her sophomore and senior years, also as treasurer of the Honor society. She is one of the "Seven Singers," an ensemble from her school and of the capella choir.

Mrs. Robert Keltner of this city is her aunt.

Homecoming at Union Chapel Church Sunday

Sunday will be the annual homecoming at Union Chapel, Cumberland Presbyterian church, located seven miles northwest of Harrisburg.

Union Chapel was organized in 1895 and has been since that time one of the most outstanding churches of the Brushy community.

Services will begin at 10 a. m. with Sunday school. Other services are to follow.

Communion will be during the morning service, with a basket dinner at the noon hour.

All the living former pastors of the church have been contacted and it is expected that most of them will be present for the afternoon services.

The "Boys of Little Egypt" quartet will render special singing. A baptismal service will be conducted at the close of the afternoon service.

The Pastor, Rev. Vol L. Sittig, extends a welcome to all the friends of the church to attend these services.

Only one charter member of the church is still living, Mrs. Mary Riegel. However there are five families of four generations attending the church.

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—This is Hollywood, Mrs. Jones: Gordon MacRae posed for some gag golf photos with a kangaroo and later commented: "The beast had a better swing than Phil Harris."

AROUND SPRINGFIELD

By DON E. CHAMBERLAIN

Gov. Stratton, Edw. J. Barrett Draw Political Attention

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (Special to The Register)—Two political celebrities, one a Republican and the other a Democrat, are increasingly figuring in the political news. One is Governor Stratton who in a "slip of the tongue" indicated he may run for reelection next year, and the other Edward J. Barrett, Cook county clerk and former secretary of state, whose recent speech at a party rally in Petersburg, drew some attention.

Stratton speaking at an Illinois Women's Republican Club luncheon in Springfield said: "I am confident we will be able to go back to the people next year and show them that great progress has been made in Illinois and also on the national level."

Realizing he said "we" Stratton quickly added as to his own intentions that he hasn't as yet said "yes" and he hasn't said "no."

Barrett told the seven-county Petersburg rally that fortunes of the Democrats are on the upswing. In speaking of his defeat for secretary of state in 1952 by Republican Charles F. Carpenter, East Moline, Barrett said: "Defeat is never tasty. But it's like tasting castor oil — it doesn't taste good going down, but sometimes it's good for you."

Barrett was noncommittal on his plans for the future. He said he is too busy trying to be a good county clerk in Chicago to talk about future prospects. Some thought this meant he will try to keep that office when it comes up again next year. Others professed to "know" he would run for governor if his health is good and he has support of Cook County Democrats.

Governor Stratton has signed into law the bill which would permit an old age pensioner to earn up to $50 a month in addition to his old age assistance, under certain conditions. The bill, on which Sen. William F. Hensley, R., Lawrenceville, is a co-sponsor, would exempt earned income of $50 if and when federal regulations providing grants to states, permits such exemption.

Also approved by the Governor was a bill by the late Sen. Frank Johnson, R., Kewanee, which would require cheese sold in Illinois to be labeled with the name of the state where it was made. Another approved bill is that which authorizes poll watchers to serve in any precinct or ward in the county in which they reside, but that if there are two watchers, one must live in the precinct or ward.

A recent land gift by a Quincy widow has made Siloam Springs State Park near Quincy and Mt. Sterling, the state's second largest conservation area. The land, consisting of 95 acres, was donated by Mrs. Jane R. Barrett, widow of the late Charles R. Barrett, Quincy attorney, State Park Superintendent Robert G. Miley, Harrisburg, said it gives the park a total of 2,575 acres.

Bonnie Bunch, SIU Freshman Beauty, Is Invited to Appear on Herb Shriner Show

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Bonnie Bunch, 18-year-old blue-eyed Southern Illinois university freshman beauty from Kampsville (Calhoun county), Ill., has been invited to appear as a contestant on Herb Shriner's television show, "Two for the Money," late in June. Shriner's television show, originating in New York, is broadcast Saturday evenings.

Miss Bunch says the invitation means an expense-paid trip to New York for the appearance. Exact details of travel and appearance time are expected any day, she said. Shriner's interest was aroused by news items recounting her prowess in catching greased pigs as a farm girl at 4-H club achievement day contests in order to begin a livestock enterprise that is paying part of her college education.

The industrious, quiet SIU beauty was picked as 1955 national queen of Rural Electric Cooperatives at Atlantic City in February after winning district and state titles. Previously she was 1953-54 Miss Illinois Fruit Queen, representing the Illinois fruit industry at conventions and appearing on some 20 television shows.

"The trip to New York will be wonderful," Miss Bunch says.

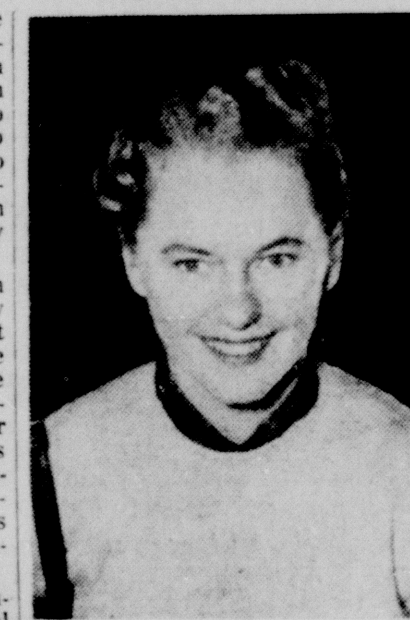

But that isn't all she has scheduled for the summer vacation. During the last week of July she will participate in the Miss Wisconsin beauty pageant at Wisconsin Dells, serving as a modeling assistant and "ice breaker" for the pageant contestants.

The summer's activities also include two weeks as camp counselor in the Missouri Ozarks for a Calhoun county group. If there is any time left there will be plenty of work at the family farm near Kampsville where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bunch, are grain and livestock farmers.

Senate Committee Approves 'Cooling Off' Divorce Bill

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—A series of House-approved bills to provide a 60-day "cooling off" period in divorce cases today reached the Senate floor with committee approval.

Cook County Circuit Judge Julius H. Miner, framer of the measures, told the Senate Judiciary committee Tuesday the bills are "intended to slow down divorces" and help prevent juvenile delinquency and social disorder.

Miner said many divorces never would become final if the husband and wife had a chance to stop and think it over.

He said the present series of bills overcomes objections to a 1953 series which the Illinois Supreme Court found unconstitutional.

But Arthur Goldblatt, a Chicago divorce lawyer, said "This bill attempts to do the same things the Supreme Court has said couldn't be done."

He said the bill still would deny quick legal action in divorce cases as guaranteed by the constitution.

school's 35th annual commencement on Sunday. Miss Barnes' average for the session was 96 per cent.

IT HAPPENED IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS: The College In The Hills

JOHN W. ALLEN
Southern Illinois University
It ended in failure about twenty years ago—or did it? The venture was idealistic. It was also a pioneer one despite its recentcy.

It was in 1933, in the depths of the depression years, that a small group of people, most of whom were graduates of Chicago and Northwestern universities, began plans for the College in the Hills.
This college would make available
to the youth of the area a liberal education—one that they, poor as they were, could afford.

One may wonder why southern Illinois was chosen as the location for a new college. There were several reasons for such a choice.
Some of the group were students of sociology. They thought that conditions in southern Illinois afforded excellent opportunities for further study of that science and also an opportunity to apply its basic principles.

Poor Population

Conditions in southern Illinois were then deplorable. Aside from a general subsistence type of farming, mining was the principal industry of the region. Unemployment among the miners was high.
Many mines had closed, never to reopen. Others were operating at 25 per cent of capacity or even less.
The population was, even by standards of that time, desperately poor. More than one-fourth of the people were dependent solely upon emergency relief. Numerous families were living on $25 or even less per month. This afforded them only the barest of existence. Poverty was on every hand. Malnutrition, disease, and despair were widespread. Housing was deplorable.
People were too poor to move,
and, after all, where could they go?

Schools could offer little in terms of social and recreational life. Most elementary schools were of the one-room type. Southern Illinois Normal university was the only institution offering instruction beyond high school. Though Southern was a comparatively inexpensive school
to attend, the expenses there were more than many potential and aspiring students could afford. These were the times and conditions that prompted a dream.

School Opened in 1934

In February, 1934, some of those interested made a trip to southern Illinois to make a dream come true.
A site on a hilltop south of Herod
and on the east side of Route 34
was selected. A contract and a down payment on 40 acres of land was made. This group spent some time in securing the interest and approval of educational leaders in the area, in explaining their objectives, and even in the actual labor of building construction.
Ground was cleared, underbrush
was cut away, a water supply was arranged, and sanitary facilities were made.

School opened on June 25, 1934,
with 16 students and 11 staff members. An eight-weeks' session was conducted. Courses were offered in economics, art, speech, psychology, geology, German, political science, and modern civilization.
The total cost of this first term was $10 per student for room, board, and tuition. Students were also required to do four hours each day
at manual labor. Each student provided his bedding and personal articles, including "high boots, overalls, and rough warm outdoor clothes."

No Faculty Salaries

Staff members received no salary—"only a small allowance for personal expenses." Both faculty and students participated in the actual construction and maintenance of the college. Rock was quarried on the campus, wood was donated by farmers, gravel was secured from the creek bed. Some lumber came from trees on the campus. Much of the food used was raised on the campus farm.

The first building erected served as kitchen, temporary living-dining room, library and girls' dormitory.
Lighting was by kerosene and gasoline lamps. Heating was by the fireplace and by one or two donated stoves that used coal costing $2 a ton. The general fuel, however, was wood obtained from the nearby forest.

Life at this College in the Hills
was a strenuous one. A typical day was: 4:30, rise and care for chores
like getting in water and fire wood;
6:00, breakfast; 6:30-10:00, physical work like building construction,
gardening, housekeeping, hauling
rock, etc.; 10:00-11:30, study; 11:30-12:00, dinner; 12:00-1:30, recreation or study; 1:30-5:00, classes;
5:15, supper; 5:45-8:00, study and recreation; 8:00, taps and bedtime.

Community nights were arranged twice weekly for children and a Sunday afternoon forum was held. Children had access to the college library which contained about 2500 well-selected books. For recreation in season the students
swam in the "swimming holes,"
hiked, folk danced, and engaged in other similar types of entertainment.

Forced to Close

When time for the opening of the full term came, or October 15, 1935
arrived, the college dormitory was not completed. The opening of the school was accordingly delayed until January of 1936. Tuition for this term of twelve weeks was set at $30. Despite the utmost frugality of students and faculty, the college was soon in dire financial straits. A debt of $400 soon arose, and a land payment was due. A concert was arranged in Chicago
to raise funds. Personal solicitations were made. Despite every effort, however, the college was forced to close.

Today, only a small collection of newspaper clippings, a handful of mimeographed literature, a heap
of stones and charred timbers, a few letters, and the fleeting memories of those who knew the College in the Hills remain to tell its
story.

Did the founders regret their venture? Did those who contributed to the meager funds that kept it alive its few years rue their gifting? No! A recent letter from one of the instructors who worked in the college is typical. It says, "We do not regret for a minute the years spent on this venture though they left us broke and one of our number in a TB sanitarium. It was probably as good a way as any to spend the depression, and we weren't the only ones that went hungry. I do remember with horror... when our dinner (and only meal) each day consisted of a hamburger and French fries—the price,
ten cents per person."

30,200 Veterans Enrolled Under Korean GI Bill

Korean GI Bill enrollments in Illinois passed the 30,200 mark on May 1, 1955, surpassing all previous records of the three-year-old veterans' training law, Robert D.
Beer, VA's manager for Illinois, announced today. Since passage of the bill, however, a total of 51,425
Illinois veterans have taken training.

The May 1 figure was 30,200—
nearly 2,770 above the former record reached one month ago.

The current GI training boom began with fall enrollments of 1954,
Beer said. By the end of that year, 27,287 veterans were in schools, on farms, and at job training work-benches, under the Korean GI Bill.
Veterans' enrollments declined slightly during the midwinter
school vacation, then spurted
ahead to 48,094 on April 1, and finally to 51,425 May 1.

Of the Korean veterans currently
in training, 55% are attending colleges and universities; 28% are going to trade and vocational schools; 7% are taking on-the-job training, while 10% are participating in farm-training programs.

So far, 51,425 Illinois veterans—
one-fourth of all who served since the start of the Korean conflict in June 1950—have taken some form of education or training under the Korean GI Bill.

Scarcity of Young Scientists Deplored

AUSTIN, Tex. (U.P.)—There will be an acute shortage of scientifically trained young men within a few years unless more high school graduates can be induced to seek scientific training in college, a National Research Council committee
chairman says.

The chairman, Dr. H. J. Ettlinger
of the department of mathematics of the University of Texas and head of the NRC's division of mathematics, has been touring Texas high schools seeking prospective students.

Ettlinger launched his "grass roots" campaign after deciding the shortage of such students would be harmful in many ways. Not only will there not be enough scientifically trained men for industry and military needs, he said, but there will not be enough of them to provide teachers for following groups
of students.

Ettlinger recently attended an international mathematics conference in the Netherlands and said
he learned that shortage was not peculiar to the United States. Almost all nations, he said, have found a shortage of highly trained young men now that the atomic age has arrived.

DEATH OF A LEGEND

XXXIII

In September, 1879, three years to the month from the disaster at Northfield, a telegram went from Kansas City to the Chicago headquarters of William Pinkerton, now replacing his famous father as head of the agency. It was unsigned and consisted of five unqualified words: "HE IS BACK IN MISSOURI."

By now he knew his man and he knew his methods. Thirteen years on the trail drew instantly into spotlight focus. The beam fell mercilessly upon Clay and Jackson counties.

In the late twilight of Oct. 7, 1879, Jesse "returned."

The scene was Blue Cut on the Chicago & Alton Railroad near Glendale, Jackson County, Mo. There were six men in the gang. The old guerrilla method was employed.

The horses thundered into Glendale on the dead run. The rebel yells echoed, guns roared, the window glass crashed and fell. The employees at the depot were pistol-whipped, herded into and locked in the baggage room. The train was flagged down, boarded. William Grimes, the express messenger, sought valiantly and in vain to hide the $35,000 in his charge. He was beaten senseless and left for dead. The escape was as complete and successful as had been the assault. There was no attempt to "take the coaches."

Witnesses by the score were dredged out of the Clay and Jackson county back country. Fearful testimony was given and taken in secret. The old immunity was broken and within 24 hours the Chicago office released a bulletin naming the new gang: Jesse James, Ed Miller, Wood Hite, Bill Ryan, Dick Liddell, Tucker Basham.

Where, indeed, were the magic names of old?

But sorry crew or not, $35,000 in very real money were missing.

And missing with that money, shadowy and swift as ever the old, glorious band was, were Jesse and his new recruits.

For months the border was quiet. Then a sudden, smoldering flare sprang to life.

Big George Shepherd, comrade of the "Bloody Bill" Anderson days, was released from the Missouri State Penitentiary. A legend came back to life, a forgotten era incarnate. Big George strode briefly and shadow-tall across the darkening stage.

His last statement on entering prison had been to Yankee Bligh, the Pinkerton detective who had trailed and jailed him, following the Russellville robbery. "I don't know any of the men who were with me."

But the gray-walled years had changed Big George's mind.

On his release, he went straight to the office of the Kansas City marshal. That astute officer, listening to his proposition, furnished him with a fake newspaper clipping purporting to relate how Shepherd, unwavering in his allegiance to his noble bandit pals of yore, had become the object of a widespread manhunt by the very officials he was working with. With this sorry bait, Big George is supposed to have sought out his former outlaw comrades.

Weeks later he returned to Kansas City and the headlines blared his triumph.

JESSE JAMES IS DEAD!

Shepherd's story was simple. Jesse and the boys had welcomed him heartily. At the opportune moment, he had got Jesse to one side, alone, and shot him.

For William Pinkerton the tale was too simple. Bulldog-wise, he demanded a body. None was forthcoming. The Pinkerton office refused the ex-guerrilla's claims, giving credence publicly to their clear discrepancies. For some time the official Pinkerton viewpoint was given broad public acceptance in Missouri. These people knew Jesse James. They did not just walk out and take Dingus with a fake clipping.

But then the months rolled on. There was no more Jesse.

Cuss it all, maybe old George had got him. Maybe he had shot Dingus after all. You had to admit George had been a member in good standing as of the Russellville, Ky., job. And that he had taken his medicine for that job without squawking on Dingus or Frank or any of the others. Maybe Jesse had been glad to see old George. Maybe he had welcomed him into the new gang, just the way Big George told it. Maybe Jesse James was dead.

William Pinkerton shook his big head and thought otherwise.

As he did, 1880 wore away. Then 1881 eased past January, crawled through February, and started into March.

In the first week of that month the gang, with Frank back at Jesse's side, struck like lightning and far afield: at a stagecoach outside Muscle Shoals, Ala.

It was a feint, only.

On July 10 the first of the real blows fell: on the Davis & Sexton Bank in Riverton, Iowa—to a net result of $5000 and a spot-clean getaway.

But now the Pinkertons had their man back in the glare of the searchlight. All points bulletins were dispatched into the five key states of Iowa, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee and Texas. In these bulletins Pinkerton tersely warned his operatives:

"Missouri, the home state, is no longer safe for the gang. Its backwoods hideouts are all under 24-hour Agency surveillance. Its local peace officers are at last alert under an anti-James administration. Jesse James is on a last, desperate raid to make a final, king's ransom killing and perhaps quiet the outlaw trail forever."

A touch out of season, but a good one. Where logs are scarce and the fireplace needs using, wrap layers and layers of newspaper in tight rolls. Tie them with cord. Then wet them and allow to dry. They'll burn quite a while.
